Guide to the Canton of Lucerne

Health Social Services Workplace

Welcome to the Canton of Lucerne

The «Guide to the Canton of Lucerne. Health – Social Services – Workplace» gives you information about cantonal and regional services, health and social services, as well as information on topics related to work and social security. For detailed information, please consult the relevant websites. If you require assistance or advice, please contact the appropriate agency directly.

Some of the services described in this guide may have changed since publication. The guide does not claim to be complete.

Further information about health services provided throughout Switzerland can be found in the «Health Guide to Switzerland». The «Guide to the Canton of Lucerne. Health – Social Services – Workplace» is closely linked to the «Health Guide to Switzerland» and you may find it helpful to cross-reference both guides.

The services described in this guide are primarily advisory services provided by social advice centres. Advisory services are defined as follows:

Advisory services

An advisory service provides counselling from an expert; using such a service is completely voluntary. These services provide information and support if you have questions that need answers, problems to solve or obligations to fulfil.

Foreword

This guide provides important information and contact details related to health services, social services and employment issues in the Canton of Lucerne. It details where residents can get help if they have any problems or questions.

The guide is mainly intended to help new residents who have moved to the Canton of Lucerne, it has been translated into several different languages. It is also a source of information and a tool for public service employees, specialists, members of associations and other interested parties.

The various municipalities in the Canton of Lucerne offer lots of different sports and cultural opportunities as well as numerous possibilities for social activities that you can undertake in a club or individually. Are you interested in fitness training or a particular sport? Would you like to get involved in social or cultural activities? Find out about the different options available in your area from your local municipal office.

Health

Physical health

Family doctor

In Switzerland the family doctor (Hausarzt) is responsible for primary health care. If you are ill or require medical advice, the first person to contact is always the family doctor. Your family doctor will refer you to a specialist or to a hospital if further treatment is required.

What happens if you do not have a family doctor? The following link gives you a complete and official list of all the doctors practising in Switzerland. You can also check out which languages the doctor speaks.

www.doctorfmh.ch

Further information about the medical care provided by family doctors and additional information on health insurance can be found in the «Health Guide to Switzerland».

Social services

Municipal social services and social services advisory centres (SoBZ)

We often need professional help to resolve personal, family or financial problems. You can get help for your specific problem through a personal consultation either with the social services department in your local municipality or a social services advisory centre. Every municipality in the Canton of Lucerne either has its own social service or runs a social service advisory centre (SoBZ) in conjunction with other municipalities.

The social services for your local municipality or the social services advisory centre (SoBZ) cover the following topics:

- Parental guidance/health visitor services
- Educational counselling
- Youth counselling
- Counselling for individuals, couples and families
- Budget and debt advice
- Social welfare and parental assistance
- Counselling for alcohol abuse or addiction
- Advice on eating disorders, gambling, drug addiction and other addictions
- Professional guardianship in the context of child and adult protection
- Advice and support for pupils and students

You can find out which social service or regional office advisory centre (SoBZ) serves your municipality by enquiring at your municipal offices. More information is available on the website: www.sobz.ch
